ILLVSTRISSIMO D. HEN-RICO, MAGNÆ BRITAN-NIÆ PRINCIPI.

Emiretur Celsitudo Tua (serenissime Princeps) si in hoc Etymologiarum opere edendo, patrocinium Tuum implorare ausus sim: quum neque alienum sit à tanti Principis clementiâ divi totelarî munus præstare; nec indignum amplitudine, illud studium præmovere, quod tu, Deus optimus maximus invenit, & primus omnium instituit. Nam, ut prima repetens ab origine pergam, quum in principio hominem formasset, אדם à rubore nominavit, כוונת יצחק אברהם את האדם; cum ex Adami collâ mulierē finxisset, חוה vocetur (inquit Adam) nomen ejus בן אדם וחוה. Nec vero Etymis suis illustravit solum, quæ imposuit, Deus aliena: sed etiam nominis sui τὴν παρρησίαν Iudæis αὐτὰ φωνήεντα, rationem dedit, illud à verbo הוה hoc modo deducens, הוה אשד אהיה. Creatorem imitatus suum, creatura perfectissima, angelus, nomen divini Numinis, generis humani Servatoris, non line Etymi ratione beatæ Virgini annuntiavit; Καὶ ὅτε τὸ ἐννοεῖ αὐτὴ Ἰησοῦν, ὁνομασθὲν ἅ ληθὲς αὐτῇ, ἀπὸ τοῦ ἀμάρτυρος αὐτῶν. Dies me deficeret, si singulas sacræ paginæ Etymologias recensere vellem: quum singulæ pene dictiones in sacrâ linguâ contentæ (propria nomina non excipio,) à primitivis suis & radicibus, quæ sunt paucæ admodum, ducant originem. Vnde luculenter appâret hanc Etymologiam disciplinam omnium & esse antiquissimam, utilissimam, dignissimam, & præ ceteris evchendam: utpote quæ Deum ipsum habuerit autorem, & doctorem; linguamq; sanctam, à qua reliquæ, velut à fonte fluxerunt, fidelem dominam & conservatricem. Hanc verò sacrosanctam disciplinam primus ego nostrorum hominum quod sciam, utcunq; rudis & incultus, aliisq; qui & arte & eloquio pollēt, nullo modo conferendus, pro tenuitate meâ percolui, & post Isidorum & Perottum, é probatissimis autorum monumentis, veterum & recentiorum Criticorum scriptis studiose perlectis, hanc qualemcunq; opellam collegi, & in hanc Dictionarii formam, multis à me additis Etymologiis, vel secus emendatis, digessi. De-niq: totus in hoc ferè fui per hoc biennium proxime præteritum, ut opus hoc à me olim in cō. n. me bonum (ut spero) inchoatum, summeque Tuæ Majestati consecratum, auctius & limatius, & Tuo jam dignius patrocinio, in conspectum hominum prodiret, pro virili meo, subcivis horis elaboravi. Quod etsi propositum meum non sum adeò foeliciter assequutus, ut Tua dignum lectione polliceri vel ausim vel possim; & hi demùm conatus, mihi licet operosi, non sint illud pondus apud literatos habituri, ut inter minorum gentium scripta reponi debeant: dignetur tamen Excellentia Tua hanc meam opellam blandâ favoris Tui aurâ afflari, & propter innatam illam humanitatem, æqui bonique consulere. Quam ego qua decet animi rēverentiâ ac submissiōe, Serenitati Tuæ offero: & Te simul, quem ad tuendas artes natum video, suppliciter exoro, ut hujus utilissimi & dignissimi studij patrocinium suscipias clementissimum, & me simul ab eorum sannis & ludibrijs, qui in hanc scientiam liberius invehuntur, sub alis & umbrâ clementiæ Tuæ, velut sub Ajacis clypeo, tueri digneris. Celebravit olim antiquitas Alexandros suos, Cæsares, Mæcenates, & Ptolomæos, & jam inde Alphonso, Mediceos, qui bonas literas non tam ipsi coluerunt, sed & coelesti afflatu velut excitati, Musas & Musarum mystas foverunt, salarijs ditârunt, honorârunt, quorum inde nomina, gratitudinis ergo plenis buccis decantata, totis etiam libris, stellis, & integris asterismis insculpta sunt. Pergat Tua Serenitas in promovendis & ornandis studijs (quod jam strenuè facit) optimarum rerum: & expectet, non tam Britanniz Suz, sed & totius orbis Christiani applausum, quem jam habet, sed æternam & immortalem illam laudem omnium honorum, & gratitudinem cum in hac vitâ, cum in coelesti Academia nunquam perituram. Quam faxit Deus assequaris, & quicquid interim velis, ex animi voto fruaris: quod ego, & quod omnes mecum boni, à Deo optimo maximo deprecari non desistent.

devotissimus,

FRANCISCUS.

de SACRA QUERCY.

Benigno Lectori Salutem.

QUOD in hac novâ editione huius Etymologici Dictionarij præstitum sit (benigne Lector) quum tuâ scire inter sit, paucis te certiorë faciam: nam & ipsa res exigit, & quorundâ hominum improbitas (qui, ut reliqua ferè omnia, sic & hoc studiû sugillant) hoc à me quodâ modo extorquere videtur. Dabis spero veniam: non ero multus. Et quidè quod obtrectatoribus hisce opponâ, vel quod in huiusce studij patrocinium prius in medium proferâ, non occurrit optabilis argumentum, quàm ipsius rei dignitas, quæ non tam professores, sed & cultores, illustres eos quidem, & antiquos, & in omni humaniore literaturâ facile principes, habuerit, qui ad hoc studiû ornandum, promovendum, nihil non fecerint. Divinus ille Plato quantû in vocum originatione elaboravit, è Cratylo conijcias: quantum Crisippus, ex eo, quòd undecim libros ituvabozuâ ad Dioclem scripserit. Citantur ab Athenæo Demetrii Ixionis libri ituvabozuâ, & Orionis libri ituvabozuâ, à Suida allegantur. Philo Iudeus & Dionysius Presbyter insignes olim Theologi, hoc argumento desudârunt. Non est cur hic memorem Varrones, Fabios, Isidoros, Nonios, huiusce studij patronos, vindices, autores, reliquosque præstantes viros quos hac ætas tulit, Lipsios, Scaligeros, &c. qui studiû hoc auxerunt, honestârunt. Visitatem aequè ac necessitatem si spectes, singulis ferè scientijs subservientem invenies. Clavem & scientiæ matrem Plato vocat ituvabozuâ, inde Festus nomen derivatum vult quod notam rem faciat; & Epictetus ituvabozuâ à vocum origine naturam manifestam Scaliger affirmat: & tum demum rectè rem intelligemus (quidam ait) quum vocis genuinam originem & fontem tenuerimus. Quantum grammatico, quantum poete quantum oratori conferat, vocum proprietates, Metaphora, derivationes, quantitates ostendit. Sed ipse pro se loquatur Fabius: Scrutabitur mille præceptor acer & subtilis nominum origines. Quantum Dialectico, Topica docent Aristotelis & Ciceronis, definitiones, & nominis notationes: quum ex vi nominis argumentum elicitur, inquit Tullius, græci ituvabozuâ appellant. Quantum medico; dicat ipse, quum rimetur inde vires herbarum & medicamentorum. Quantû Iurisperito, testis Fabius; qui summû Iurisperiti laborem in proprietate verborum versatum vult, & omne ius in eorum interpretatione positum: unde Labeonem Antistium refert Gellius hæc scientiâ ad enodandos plerosque iuris laqueos usum fuisse Taceo Theologos, quos omnium artium & linguarum cognitione instructos esse oportet: nihil iis familiarius: qui si desituantur his, ne unius ferè sensum versiculi explicari probè possunt. Desinant ergo nobis obtrectatores isti futilitatem obijcere: hoc si sit ineptire, malo cum illis desipere, quàm cû his serîo sapere. Obrepant aliquando licet figmenta quadam malè seriatorum hominû ridicula, vice gemini Etymi, quod illi forsân blandiente coniectura, ad ingeniorum exercitationem, vel ad voluptatem excogitârint: non tamen ideo explodenda, quum & quandoque suum usum habent, ut rem vocabulo substratam fortius animo insigant.

*Quam ob causam, non tam geminas ego, sed & fictitias aliquando Etymologias (non obscuras eas, nec agrè detortas tamen) huic operi inserui, ut delectationem aequè ac utilitatem lector habet. Et quoniam varia quandoque unius & eiusdem verbi a viris etiam doctis proferantur Etyma, & varius sit ingeniorum gustus: ego delectum hunc è probatissimis quibusque scriptoribus habui, & uniuscuiusque nomen, ut suis cuique honor sit, apposui. Si quis porro querat cur non omnium vocum originationes attulerim, audiat Isidorum: non omnia, inquit, nomina à veteribus secundum natu-ram sunt imposta; quadam secundum placitum, non secundum qualitatem, sed iuxta arbitrium humana voluntatis. Ad partitionem quod attinet huiusce Dictionarij, nemo mihi spero vitio vertet, præsertim quum nemo non sciat multa barbarâ, obsole-ta, peregrina vocabula, ab antiquis, & novis illis medicis, philosophis, mathematicis, cæteriisque olim usurpata, & à novis indies excogitata, quæ rerum verborumque do-mina necessitas imposuit, à singulis ferè Lexicographis collecta & indicibus suis in-serta, maximè necessaria, pueris tamen religiose interdita, & ijs qui puriorem lati-nitatem amant, ne corrumpatur stylus eorum lectione aut usu. Ego, quum instum volumen per se faciant, seorsim imprimenda censeui: ut quoties usus posset, facili ad ea daretur aditus, in suam classem digessi. Quod ad eorum delictum, ne quis forsan reprehendat, eadem pro barbaris habui, quæ & alijs antea habuerunt, aliorum indicium sequutus: & singula ferè verba pensitasset, consultiis quibusdam doctissimis amicis, si non prelum prævertisset, & hanc qualem qualem industriam excessisset: sed hunc lapsum benignus Lector, spero, facile condonet. Restat nunc ut eos grata animi significatione memorcm qui me in hoc opere adiutârint, aut quovis modo subsidio fuerint. Et lubens quidem memoro, doctissimum imprimis virum, M. Tho. Iameti-um, Protobibliothecarium, de bonis literis, & de hac Academia optimè meritum, qui multa verba quæ in diligentî Patrum lectione notârât, mihi liberius impertire non re-cusavit. E Coll. Reg. M. Guli. Edmundsonum utriusque lingua ac theologiæ perit-um cuius opera & indicio in verbis eligendis & secernendis usus sum. Ex Aede Christi M. Robertum Burtonum eruditum mathematicum aequè ac theotopum, qui tum è mathematicis, tum ex alijs nonnulla inter legendum observavit, & huic operi inseruit. E Coll. Lincoln. Matthiam Watsonum, artium Bacc. qui propter lingua Græcæ peritiam, tum ex Suida, Hesychio, Eustathio, cæteriisque Græcis plurima colle-git, quæ propriorum nominum Etymis nonnihil lucis afferunt. Sed ne molestus tibi lector, sim, finem iam faciam, si priùs à te hoc unum exoravero, ut si quæ forsan menda vel ab imperitia, & acceleratione typographorum qui me multum urgebant, vel se-cùs ab incuriâ, in hanc opellam irrepperint, quas irrepsisse certò scio, quum vix mihi relegendi, nedum rescribendi tempus aliquando datum sit, his quibuscunque mendis, propter humanitatem tuam indulgeas, & hos qualescunque labores, mihi sanè molestos & operosos, aqni bonique consulere digneris. Vale. Oxon. prid. Kalend.

RECTE Viues: esse nonnulla que primo quoq; tempore necesse erit e-vulgari, narrationem rei gestæ ad plurimos videntium pertinentis, tum que infestandi criminis in commune noxii, aut depellende à nobis calumnia causâ componantur. Quorum ego vnum & alterum, quum tibi & libro tuo, falsò licet, inuistū viderem:

Id mihi negoti credidi solam dari, tum ob amicitiam veterem (ut qui sub eadem ferulâ meruimus) tum ob ipsius causâ bonitatem, ut hisce quibuscung; calumniis, sannis, & ludibriis occurrerem, & te simul & bonos tecum omnes quamprimò indicarem. Et sanè quod ad susurrionem illum attinet, huiusce scommatis autorem & casus fuisse, aut illius saltem conductiti in theotorem, qui seuiri quidam proacritate fretus, nescio quò supercilio super suspensâ latinitate iudicii, doctis viris visum te fuisse vult, & labores tuos verè operosos, subtilissimâ Etymologiarum figmenta vocet, & barbarè ludens, avaris & lucripetis litem intendant: quod ad illum, inquam, attinet, Athenienfium more multatum vellem. Nam, quod optimè Cardanus, Si per hos scythas impune licet oppedere probis viris, qui opes & operam pro studiis impendant: ludibrie mox habebuntur artes & discipuli, simul cunctis qui eas proficiunt, viris. Sed quibus ille verbis calumniatorem suum affatus est, isdem & tu tuum alloquaris: Dū dabunt ut faba hæc in suum caput recudatur, qui tam liberè censuram agat, ipse tamen deteriora his quæ reprehendit, admittat. Verum hæc aliis for-tasse, non tibi; lucripetis & avaris, quum tu longè ab his à sordide nouit ingenium animum tuum, & verè liberalem; de grege suo Typographos perstringit. At qui alterum incusat probi, ipsum se intueri oportet: Omnia que vendicatis in altero (inquit orator), tibi ipsi vebemèter fugienda sunt.

Et si enim illi hæc conumeliâ digni sunt,

At ille indignus qui hæc diceret tamen.

Vel quod apud Æsopum, stendens aper respondit irridenti asino, si illi pœnâ digni, at ille indignus qui ab his pœnam sumat. Et, quod illi in aurem dictum sit, si lucrum in causâ nō fuisset: nec tibi, nec illis litem hanc intendisset. Nec ego interim hunc hominum gregem excusari habeo.
Nam, ut quod res est cum Vernamo dicam, questui magis & avaritiæ, quàm literarum profe-ctui student: & quod appositè Rainoldus, ad lucrum attentiores quàm ad officiū, solūm curant, non ut maximo cum legentiū fructu, sed ut suo minimo cum sumtu rem expediant. Quod si itaq; horum a-liqui frustraneum hunc laborem, & molem inutilem obijciant securè contemnas. Nam & ii ipsi qui sic arguunt, nugæ omnium nugacissimas, modò sint in rem suam, ingentes ineptiarum to-mos, interdum fastidiosè protrudunt. At æquius ferendū foret, si de grege hoc quispiā solūmodo vellicaret. Verum è doctorum numero sunt, valde docti (si diis placeat) egregie docti, qui subsan-nāt hoc opus: qui nō tam subtilissimū hoc Etymologiarum figmentum, sed totum hoc studiū Criticum calumniantur ut in vile, aspernantur ut leue; ipso consulente Lipsio Criticorū Phæbo, ut ille ex Albani canis qui donatus Alexandro, vindica te ab illis solo contemptu. Et enim calum-nari, debacchari, derogare, diffamare, rixari, nugari, & obloqui, familiares huic ego morbi sunt, ingeniorum clades, & pestes Epidemicæ, penè dixeram Academicæ, susurriones ubiq; sunt; clamapalam irrident; hoc invicem faciunt, cadimur inq; vicem &c. hoc bonis æque ac malis fit: & quod te soletur, hoc optimis fit; hoc, inquam, divinis viris fit.

O iam à tergo quem nulla ciconia pisset,

Nec

Nec refert quam ob causam fiat: si non alia occurrat, hæc tamen unaquæq; secta (quod ex Firmiano pulchre notavit Agrippa) omnes alias evertit, ut se suamq; confirmet: nec ulla alteri sapere concedit, ne desipere videatur. Improbent ergo illi & obloquantur, rampantur licet & maledicant: tu cum Lucilio canas.

Te paucis male à sapientibus esse probatum.

Si qui cordatores sunt qui studium hoc reprehendant, hæc illustre nomen Varronis, Festi, Isidori, Nonii, neotericis, Canisii, Perotii, utriusq; Scaligeri (quætorum Europæ lumium!) qui in hoc pulvere sudarunt: ipsius Lipsii, qui salem & solem vocat, opponas. Frémât illi: in rectâ pergas ad famam viâ, & quod in Reipub. literarum bonum, quod felix faustumque sit, pergas, Majoris ingenii, doctrinæ, iudicii est hoc opus, quàm illorum mille centenas.

Neque te moueant interim nasuti quidam Grammaticæ, Rhetoræ dicaculi æque ac delicatuli, qui tibi nescio quem et ætæque ipso statim ingressu tanto strepitu objiciant, ob casus immutationis: horrendum scelus! Perinde ac Antonius ille Iulianus apud Gellium in oratione M. Tullii: Verbi ab eo mutati argutiam tenuiter & curiose explorent. Nam si dictionis illius moris huius tam acuti paulò penitius rimari velint: nihil ibi coactum, nihil immutatum, nullum omnino Solæcisum inuenient, nihil ibi, nisi quod certa ratione, & proba Grammaticæ disciplina dictum sit; nec aliam dicendi legem assumptâ nisi quâ grauissimi prius auctores approbarint, & nil quod non ipsius exemplo Tullii defendi poterit. Sed consulant Gellium lib. 1. cap. 7. qui magnam exemplorum & locutionum talium copiam præbet; & cap. 16. ejusdem libri, ubi familiarem hanc & frequentem casuum transpositionem offendunt. Legant ejusdem cap. 14. lib. 10. ubi innumera hujusmodi occurrunt, sibiq; ipsis satisfaciant. Sed quod stolidis hæc Grammaticis, tumidissiq; magistellis dictum in genere velim: Est imperitum, dicaculq; imperiosum, & si quod aliud, arrogans hoc genus hominum: qui singulos fere allatrat, superciliose contemnunt, quibus nihil magis volupe est, quàm vi in aliorum scriptis dictisve quid arrodet, ut phrasin aut formulam vellat, quando ipsi interim nec quid auiant, nec possint, quod scire Picus, Mercurium in lingua, non in pectore gerunt. Qui si puerilem in modum, consarcinatis hinc inde florulis, e thesauro phrasum unam aut alteram orationunculam habuerint, & pro famâ pollinxerint: deus bone, quantos inde spiritus allumunt, quàm elati incedunt, solos se peritos, solos eloquētes, undiquaq; doctos, omnem Encyclopediam, omnem sapientiam se putant assequutos; quàm fastidiunt illico omnes, qui non æque recte ac polite dicant, qui non in omni clausurâ Ciceronem æque exprimant, quàm illiteratos habent, quàm nullos? quando quod loquantur interim non habeant & quod de lusciniâ dictum ferunt, Voces sunt, præterea nihil, mancipia pauca lectionis cum sint. (Scaligeri verbis utor) ex æguis, aridi, steriles, inanes, & vix artes à limine salutarint. Asibi quâ cū velint, prædâq; indiseretâ manu Cicero prudentiâ, quam stultam loquacitatem. Et me quod attinet, disce, eam, si non ego quemvis potius de plebe philosophum, etiam Grammaticorum castis, Sipontinum, Desfonteinum; Alcentium Badium, ut quælibet bulentem, mille logodædalis, mille simiis, mille Nizolianis, mille prætulerim. Sed cum Senensis philosopho concludam. Malo scientiarum fato sit, ut tempore nostrâ pleriq; omnes, qui lingua latina student, scientias nullas norint; contra, qui liberales artes sequuntur, eloquentie se præcipuos expertos sint. Hoc ergo tu quales secure contemnas, & illorum disteria flocci pendas. Rideant illi, tu pergas tamen alacer & erectus, magni illius exemplo Lipsii, per medium hoc calumiantium agmē, aduersus omnium linguarum tela, scuto rectius veritatis & Candoris. Iuviantur & lineant à tu canas epinicia laus, & a ueritatis sacra facias Pallori & Inuidiæ.

TO THE READER.

Ourteous Reader, I may seeme to some over-bold in setting forth a new treasure of words vnto the world, when the workes of so honorable and learned men, who haue laboured in this kinde, are so learnedly penned, and highly esteemed. In truth I must, and do most willingly confesse, that neither in age, wit, learning, or experience, I am to be compared with the least of them, nay, unfit to cary the books, where som of the honorable learned should read the Lecture; whose learned labours haue yeelded these manie yeeres to England great profit. Yet notwithstanding, considering the great vilitie of a Dictionary, whose matter is manifold, and vse generall, and also that no one Dictionary, as yet extant, hath the English before the Latine, with a full Index of all such Latine words as are in anie one common Dictionary amongst vs: and also because the poore estate of most students is not able to furnish themselves with all such Dictionaries, their severall prices amounting to so much, and also weighing the great want that poore scholars haue, in not having most, or all of the common Dictionaries: I haue thought it good therefore, for thy benefit, courteous Reader, to epitomize and contract the learned workes of all the learnedst and best Dictionaries in England, with vs now extant, into a lesser roome, reducing all those learned Volumes into a portable Enchiridion, and into so great treasures to cast, for thy vse, some small mites of mine owne, which amount to foure thousand wordes more then any one Dictionary now extant affords. Which I haue done not without great paines and charges: which heauie burden of charge, if it had not been supported by the Right Honorable, my verie good Lord, the Earle of Sussex, and the Right Worshipfull Master William Waade Esquire, one of the Clerkes of her Maiesties most Honourable privie Counsell, with other of my good loving Parishioners of Barmonsey neere London, and good friends in and neere Banbury, it might haue bene said of me, as it was of the foolish builder, This man began to build, but was not able to make an end. But at last, though long, by Gods providence, it is come to this issue, that I must present it (howsoever it be finished) to thy courteous view and friendly censure: requesting thee to reprove with iudgement charitably, what I haue over past in hast: in recompence whereof, I will be no lesse willing to reforme, then thy courtesie to admonish. Thus assuring my selfe, that thou (learned Reader) wilt my faults escaped, either with thy pen correct, or in courtesie conceale: remembring, that the shadowes of yong painters may haue some blemishes, and first editions of yong writers (yea, and best workes) some faults. I commit thee (Gentle Reader) to his iudition, that must present both thee and mee faultlesse, in his owne righteousness, before the great Iudge at the coming of our Lord Iesus Christ. From Oxon. the XXX. of September.

Thine to his power,

I O H. R I D E R.

Rideri gratitudinis carmen, ad suum prænobilem Mecœnatem.

Cura fuit patri prodesse, iuvare tenellos, Omnia quæ patitur studiû nocumenta iuventus Mollis, seu cacum vulgus dispellere: cura, Ingenium, votum, vires superasset, & illud Triste fuisset opus, tua ni Comes inclyte cura Ingenium, vires, votum relevasset. In illo Subsidio superavit opus labor improbus: ecce Vox, vires, vita, & votum prius excidet omne, Solus in extremas fugiam velut exul eremos:
Signa dabit mortis fugiens calor, omnia maesto Eripies fors, sæva mihi: prius hauriet omnes Xanthi Phæbus aquas, quàm mens pro munere tanto Ingratam, seu non memorem se præbeat. In te Omnis fixa fuit spes, in te desinet omnis.

Alteri Mecœnati.

Virtutis comites te Comitum colunt, Virtutem Comitum tu sequeris comes:
Illorum pietas te trahit, & tua Latos hos probitas efficit. Est pia Illis Religio, nec minor est tua.
Ex illis patria gloria, de tuis Lux crescit patria vera, laboribus.
Monstrum terribilem vim Iovis exprimit, Ostendit fremitus Oceani truces Vilis spuma: decus solis amabile Vincens umbra docet: sic opus hoc rude Ac monstrum genû Gorgoneum mei, Divinos animi vult radios tui Donari solitis laudibus, & suis Ostendi latebris ut speculo: vale.

Tuæ salutis studiosissimus

DIRECTIONS FOR THE READER.

IN the English of every word I obserue vially this order. First, I put the verb (if it haue any) then the participle, after the Nounes Substantiues, and Adiectiues, and lastly the Adverbs.

In the Latine vnder the English I generally obserue this order.

First, I place the proper Latine word vnder the figure of 1. then the figuratiue or translate vnder the figure of 2. and lastly those that be obsolete, or wordes out of vse, vnder the figure of 3.

This note also, that when you see this v. or this word vide, it sends you to some such place there named, where you may finde more concerning that title, or word which you looke for.

Note, where after any Latine Noun you finde m. it signifieth the masculine gender, f. the feminine, n. the neuter, com. g. the common of two genders, and p. a participle, ad. for adiectiue, adv. for aduerbe.

Note also, that whē the Verbe, Noun, or Participle, alphabetically follow not together in one place, as buy and bought, sing and song, &c. then if you finde not the Noun or Participle in his place Alphabetically, nor any reference from thence with this common note vide, looke then vnder the verbe, as Buy, Sing, &c.

Also if you finde not the word you seeke for presently after one sort of spelling, condemne mee not forthwith, but consider how it is vsed to be spelled, whether with double or single letters, as Chappell, or Chapell: and also when i, and y, are confounded, if you misse the word in the one place, take a little paines to turne to the other, as in this word boile, and boyle, for example.

Also after my first Dictionarie, I haue added certaine generall heads Alphabetically placed, viz. of Birds, Colours, Dogges, Fishes, Hawkes, with their proper names, Hearbes, Numbers, Stones, Trees, Weights.

For

For the Dictionary Etymologicall. First note, (besides that which is already noted in the Epistle to the Reader) that in the first part, those words which haue this marke * are barbarous, and crept in thither by chance.

Secondly, those words which haue no Author, are Ciceroes.

Lastly, the Index of proper names is done thus briefly, least the volume should bee over bigge: but I purpose (if I liue) to Etymologize all the proper names in a Worke by it selfe; that which is yet done, being onely a meere collection out of others, yet may benefit young schollers, for whose sakes I undertooke the labour, who having this, shall neede no other Dictionary.
